There's nothing quite like a quiet evening spent sitting on your covered veranda, reading your favorite book or well, let's face it, doing nothing. There's nothing wrong with that. You could be communing with nature, or having a Zen moment, we don't really care as long as you are happy.

And what about this house wouldn't make you happy? It has the open floor plan and vaulted ceilings that make you feel right at home. You can add a fireplace to make it feel cozy.

But what will really make you happy is the second floor owners' suite we've created. We didn't stop with an oversized bedroom and adjoining bath, no, we had to add an exercise room, too. Of course, we knew you needed that open study, overlooking the great room, just to keep up with your internet accounts.

It doesn't get any better than this. Can we do anything else to make you feel Home at Last?
